$100,000 FOR THE WIDOWS AND ORPHANS.

ALSO DECIDED TODAY THAT THE CHERRY MINE WILL BE OPENED MONDAY.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26—Following the appropriation of $100,000 by the House for widows and orphans of the Cherry mine disaster, it was announced that the sealed mine would be opened Monday to recover the 210 bodies buried since last fall. It is not believed that any of the bodies can be identified.

PROTESTS AGAINST SLAVERY ON PORTUGUESE PLANTATIONS.

NOTED BRITISH REFORMER ISSUES AN APPEAL TO ENGLISHMEN AND AMERICANS.

LONDON, Jan. 26—Sir Thomas Powell Buxton, one of the most famous of British reformers, today celebrated his seventy-third birthday by issuing another appeal to Englishmen and Americans on the subject of the conditions of slavery in the Portuguese cocoa plantations of West Africa. As chairman of the Anti-Slavery and Aborigines Protection Society of England, Sir Thomas has waged unceasing warfare against those responsible for cruelties practiced in the Congo and West Africa.

Although his large income is derived from a large brewery, Sir Thomas is also the leader of the temperance forces of Great Britain.

That Sir Thomas Powell Buxton should be prominently identified with the management of the Anti-Slavery society is wholly in keeping with the traditions of his family. For his grandfather and namesake, the first baronet, achieved international fame as an abolitionist and succeeded Wilberforce as the champion of the slave in the West Indies, contributing more than any other man to their emancipation. He was associated with his sister-in-law, Mrs. Fry, in the reform of the prison management, and the introduction of more humane methods in penal institutions, while another movement which he helped to bring to a successful issue was the doing away with suttee in India—that is to say the burning alive the widows of deceased Hindoos on the latter's funeral pyre.

AUTOMOBILE PARTY TO DELEON SPRINGS TODAY.

A pleasant party of automobilists left this morning for De Leon Springs where they intended to hold a picnic dinner and return to Daytona this evening.

The party included Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. White, accompanied by Mrs. Asa Paine; Mr. and Mrs. George E. Sebring and Mr. and Mrs. H. Orvel Sebring, who are visiting with them; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Blodgett, accompanied by their friends and neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Chase and Miss Alice Noyes Smith, of Fairbault, Minn., who is spending some time here with Mr. and Mrs. Blodgett, all of whom are from Fairbault.

A clear, bright day and congenial company guaranteed for them a most enjoyable outing.

CAPTAIN G. G. GLEASON AND PARTY VISITED DAYTONA

Capt. G. G. Gleason, superintendent of the Florida Coast Line Canal and Transportation Co., was in the city Monday and Tuesday accompanied by his brother-in-law and C. H. Phillips, one of the company's civil engineers. The party were aboard the launch, Anita, which tied up at the Halifax River Yacht Club docks while they were here.

MAY PASS POSTAL SAVINGS BILL.

TWO PER CENT INTEREST WILL BE ALLOWED BY THE GOVERNMENT UNDER THE MEASURE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—Consideration of the postal savings bank bills was taken up by the Senate Committee on Postoffice today. The bills offered are expected to be reduced to one, allowing any one over ten years of age to start an account, limited to $500, which will draw two per cent interest. The bill is believed to have an excellent chance for passage.

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR TAKES TO THE WOODS.

WHETHER PREMATURELY OR NOT, ONLY TIME ALONE CAN TELL—HAS PROBABLY COMPLETED HIS CAMPAIGN.

M. H. Zuber, heavyweight candidate in the triangular fight for the mayoralty, went up to Harwood this morning in company with I. J. Price and others to indulge in a bear hunt. The party were to meet John Roberts, the guide, at Harwood and expect to be out a day or two, possibly longer.

Following the recent straw vote which gave Justice H. T. Titus a large majority, that candidate for the mayor's chair took a recess from labor and enjoyed a hunting trip of nearly a week's duration.

While Mr. Titus was out in the woods Mr. Zuber put on his glad rags and came to the city to shake hands with the voters of the business district and if possible ferret out the individual who was brave enough to cast that solitary vote for him.

While Mr. Zuber does not claim his strength in the two blocks covered by that ballot he seems to have found encouragement or discouragement in the business portion of the city to justify his taking to the woods at the present time instead of waiting until after the election.

And through it all the present incumbent of the office, Mayor E. W. Greene, also a candidate for reelection, sits tightly in the chair, saws wood and says nothing.

77th BIRTHDAY OF CORNELIUS M. BLISS

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—Cornelius M. Bliss, former secretary of the Interior and for a number of years treasurer of the National Republican Committee, celebrated his seventy-seventh birthday today. Mr. Bliss is not among the great financiers and captains of industry who believes in keeping in harness until the end. Though still as robust and vigorous as many a man of younger years, Mr. Bliss is taking steps to relieve himself of all business cares and spend the remainder of his days in quiet. On July 1st he will retire from the firm of Bliss, Fabyan & Co., the great dry goods commission house of which he has been the active head for the past thirty years.

PANAMA LIBEL SUIT DISMISSED.

JUDGE HOUGH TODAY ORDERED INDICTMENT AGAINST PUBLISHERS OF NEW YORK WORLD QUASHED.

NEW YORK, Jan. 26—Judge Hough today granted the motion to dismiss the criminal libel suit against the publishers of the New York World in the Panama canal case on the ground that the Federal court had no jurisdiction. The judge also ordered the indictment charging criminal libel, quashed.

TERRIBLE STORMS DEVASTATING WESTERN EUROPE.

WESTERN EUROPE IN GRIP OF MOST SEVERE STORM IN YEARS WITH GREAT LOSS OF LIFE AND PROPERTY.

LONDON, Jan. 26—Western Europe from the British Isles to Southern Italy and from Scandinavia to Gibraltar is in the grip of the most severe storm in years today. Floods and hurricanes are causing damage running into millions of dollars. Heavy loss of life is certain to follow. The northern coasts are dotted with wrecks. Avalanches in the Alps have cut off several towns and hurricanes are wrecking houses in northern Italy.

ANTLERED HERD IN LARGE NUMBERS MET LAST NIGHT.

One of the most interesting meetings of the season was held last evening by Daytona Lodge No. 1141, B. P. O. Elks in their cosy rooms in the Conrad block. Two candidates were given their degrees and a large number of visiting Elks were present to enjoy the fun.

Several members from Allegheny, Pa., were present and took an active (?) part in the work. After the ceremonies the usual spread was served in the banquet room which was enlivened by remarks and anecdotes from the visiting brothers, all of whom seemed to enjoy the occasion and complimented Daytona Lodge on their excellent work.

NATIONAL SKATING CHAMPIONSHIP OPENS

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 26—Speedy skaters from east and west, together with several from across the Canada border, gathered in Cleveland today for the national indoor championships. The contests, which will continue over tomorrow, are being conducted under the auspices of the International Ice skating Union. With Edward Lamy, the present amateur champion, Fred Logan, Ollie Wood and other noted skaters among the contestants, the meet promises to be one of the most successful events of its kind that has taken place in this country for several years.

DAMAGE IN FRANCE NOW $180,000,000.

RIVER SEINE STILL RISING—ENTIRE SEWER SYSTEM OF PARIS IN DANGER OF COLLAPSE.

PARIS, Jan. 26—The awful floods which have brought such terrible destruction in France are getting worse. The River Seine at noon was 19 feet and 9 inches above normal. The heavy melting of snow is causing the river to rise still more and it now threatens the city gas plant in West Paris. If it reaches there lighting and cooking facilities of the entire section will be destroyed.

The Foreign office on the Quai D'Orsay is deserted today and the water is eight feet deep in the city hall basement.

The national road has been turned into a canal by the breaking of a trunk sewer. The entire sewer system is in danger of a collapse.

A company of artillery saved the village of Lux by cannonading the dike, thus permitting the river, which threatened the destruction of the entire village to spread over the surrounding country.

The Hydrometer Service says the crest of the flood will be reached tomorrow.

It is now estimated that 50,000 are out of work, and 200,000 houses flooded in Paris and vicinity.

Soup lines and bread lines are being operated throughout the city, and practically the entire French army is assisting in the rescue work and providing for refugees.

The Chamber of Deputies this afternoon held a special session to consider relief measures.

Estimates of the damage submitted show the loss throughout France to be $180,000,000, and in Paris alone $50,000,000.

THE FOUR PICKERTS PLAY THIS WEEK

The Pickerts Stock Company, always popular in Daytona, will open their engagement at the opera house Thursday evening with "Hello, Bill." The other attractions will be: Friday night, "St. Elmo;" Saturday matinee, "For a Girl's Love;" Saturday night, "Child of the Street." Prices will be, 35 and 50 cents. Tickets on sale at Hankins' Drug Store.

The performances of this company are always good. The cast is doing fine work according to press reports, the Misses Pickerts all giving excellent portrayals of the roles entrusted to them, while Val. Cleary, who is a young actor of much ability and attractive stage presence, and Clint Dobson, a clever comedian, are especially good.

EPISCOPAL DIOCESE OF GEORGIA IN SESSION.

AMERICUS, Ga., Jan. 26—Bishop F. F. Reese presided today at the initial session of the annual convention of the Episcopal Diocese of Georgia. Delegates from many parts of the State were in attendance.

ROAD ENTHUSIASTS IN SESSION AT ST. AUGUSTINE.

St. AUGUSTINE, Jan. 26—The International League for Highway Improvements, which was organized a year ago, began its first annual convention in this city today with delegates in attendance from many states. The convention will remain in session two days.

AUSTRALIA CELEBRATES NATIONAL HOLIDAY.

MELBOURNE, Jan. 26—Australia's national holiday, the anniversary of the first white settlement, was celebrated today as a public holiday throughout the commonwealth. Business was suspended and programs of sports and festivities carried out in all the larger cities and towns.

COURT GRANTS PETITION OF MRS. SCOVILLE.

JUDGE McCORRY GRANTS PETITION OF MARY J. SCOVILLE IN THE KELLOGG WILL MATTER—MORE PYROTECHNICAL DISPLAY.

Marked by pyrotechnical displays of oratory the arguments closed yesterday afternoon in the proceedings brought by Mary J. Scoville in County Judge's Court at DeLand seeking to have the court withhold from Isaac A. Stewart letters testamentary as executor of the will of Ann Grace Kellogg, who recently died in Daytona.

Judge McCrory rendered a decision last evening granting the petition and ordering Judge Stewart to turn the property over to Mrs. Scoville as the qualified executor under the will of Miss Kellogg.

Most of the afternoon was devoted to argument by Messrs. Landis and Fish, attorneys for Mrs. Scoville, and by Judge Stewart and his law partner, Eford Bly. The bad blood existing between Mr. Landis and Judge Stewart again bubbled forth and twice the former threatened to throw at inkstand at the latter and it was with some difficulty that the court was able to preserve decorum.

The county judges' office was packed with spectators, several women being included in the audience.

The property involved includes besides real estate, valuable stocks and bonds, estimated in value at somewhat over $50,000.

NEW COMET WAS SEEN LAST NIGHT.

Just as the sun went down last evening Daytonians who chanced to observe the western sky were treated to seeing the new comet now being observed in this country. The comet was very plain and lay between the sun and Venus. This comet is newly discovered, and is known as "Comet A, of 1910," and differs greatly from most comets.

The usual comet spectrum consists of a bright series of hydro-carbon bands with a pair of intensely bright sodium lines. The striking orange color of the comet head as observed in various parts of the country is said to be due to incandescent sodium vapor. The new comet closely resembles the great comet of 1882.

SHRIMP ARE SO PLentiful THAT FISH REFUSE BAIT.

One of the ardent fishermen of the city called attention to the number of water fowl frequenting the shell bars in the river and explained that they were engaged in catching shrimp, which were now so abundant that fish would scarcely take the bait, being constantly gorged with the crustaceans.

CLARENDON MAY GO BACK TO SEABREEZE.

WILL BE SMALLER THAN
ORIGINALLY PLANNED — AR-CHITECTS NOW PROGRES-

Several parties who originally planned to assist in financing the Clarendon Hotel at Daytona have become lukewarm
about their minds, the building has been abandoned

and the plans are now under way.
The Clarendon means to this vision a number of personal friends
to return to the proposition
on a smaller scale than planned. Dr. Potter is now here and planning to build a 150-room construction on the former site at Daytona, providing the finances can be arranged. By building on this ground thousands of dollars can be saved in grading, etc.

Plans have not yet been fully
drawn but it looks as if the hotel
will be a reality, although it depends solely on financing the plan.

DEPARTMENTS TO GET BIG OVERHAULING.

BALLINGER PINCHOT INVESTI-GATION COMMENCES TODAY—

TERRESTRIAL DEVELOPMENT IS LOOKED FOR.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26—The joint
House and Senate Committee met
today to begin the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation. L. R. Davis, former chief of the field division of the Bureau of Land Office, was the first witness. He alleges that Ballinger resumed the Roosevelt conservation policy, favored "interests" rather than the public, and was an indirect
cause of the Alaska coal land frauds.
Davis is charged with running the Bureau's service to personal ends and with the Interior Department.

The investigation is expected to be the largest overhauling of government departments since the ventilation of the postoffice scandal seven years ago.

INTERSTATE ROADS

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Jan. 26—
The good roads movement in the intermountain country is promised a boost as a result of the international convention which began a few days' session here today. Delegates are in attendance from Colorado, Idaho, Utah and Wyoming. It is proposed to adopt a system for the construction of interstate highways
and to be particularly adapted to topographical, climatic and other requirements of this section of the country.

One of Daytona's crowning glories is her incomparable beach. No
one who ever set foot upon its smooth, packed sands; no one who ever pedaled a bicycle over its expanse; no one who ever drove a prancing pair of horses and listened to the popping of their steel shoes
upon its asphaltum-like face; no one
who ever steered a high-power automobile down the broad stretch of
wave-washed and surf-packed sand
but realized that it is a world-beater, a world-wonder. Go stand upon
this wide speedway and see the happy souls flit by in joyous mood, and answer whether this is not one of the seven modern wonders.

The Placid, Pellucid Halifax River.
Where think you is water with more picturesque surroundings? Nearly a mile wide, fringed with tropical vegetation, artistic cottages with roomy
verandas looking out upon her bosom,
gamey food fishes in countless numbers beckoning, as it were, to those
with rod and reel; her bosom fleck-
ed with duck and coot and snow-
winged sea birds, which sit about as if for the sport of bobbing upon the waves; watch that lubberly old
white headed pelican pouch a fat
mullet, and that fish hawk struggling upward with his floundering load he snatched from the water.

See the beautiful launches, spick
and span, their hamper and lockers
bulging with refreshments both solid
and liquid ready for a cruise upon the beautiful surface. Take out your fiel
glass and sweep the river from Ormond bridge to Ponce Park
light house, then say whether the Halifax isn't a thing of beauty and
a joy forever, and one of the modern wonders.

The Enchantingly Picturesque Ridge-
wood.

Ridgewood avenue is upon the crest
of a broad ridge, straight as the crow
flies and the wide-spreading branches
of the heavy-trunked live oaks extend their giant arms across the magnificent vista, forming an arch, and
from these extended arms great festoons of Spanish moss sway as the
trade winds from the tropic seas
fan them. Looking straight ahead
down this white shell street one has
the impression of a fairy path with elfish draperies, but as you move
along and cast an eye first to the right and then to the left you see distinguished cottage homes in the most delightful settings.

See the glistening leaf of the grand
magnolia which nature has varnished
as no artists' brush ever could; and
the cabbage palms with their burdens
of showy fruit and swaying palms;
see the lovely holly with its exqui-
site berry; see the climbing vines
run riot in the trees; see the cryp-
togramous forms which gain a foothold on the great oaks and stately palms, and surely you will join in the chorus and say that this is a world wonder for beauty.

Surpassing Beauty of Our Cottage Homes.
No one of Daytona's attractions,
perhaps, commands more nearly universal attention and praise than does the artistic cottages. The owners of these charming villas hail from every corner of the country and they bring their own architectural plans and
build upon them, and, as the architecture of one section of the country
differs from the architecture of another, so do our homes differ in outward appearance and structural beauty
for one another. There are no monotonous rows of strikingly similar buildings but the eye, as it sweeps by, is treated to a kaleidoscopic change
which keeps the mind wondering,
"What next?"

It is not only the exterior of many
of these homes which rivets attention; within they are models of convenience, and the finishing and furnishing give evidence of the elegance
and cultivation of those who worked
it all out. Indeed, it is the interior arrangement and artistic furnishing
and shading, more than the exterior
appearance that gives a surpassing charm to Daytona homes. This feature justly merits prominence as another wonder.

Streets and Pavements the Most
and Best.

Why the Architect of the Universe
chose to give Daytona the most admirable, the most picturesque natural
setting of all the cities of the South
is not revealed, but that such is a fact must be apparent to the most

superficial observer. With such lavish wealth of natural beauty it became an easy thing for the hand of
man to give the finishing touches
which have wrought out the colors
and outlines of the big picture.
Man did all this in the laying out
of the streets with their wide margins
of parkage. The entire city becomes a great park, with driveways intersecting, miles upon miles of drive-
ways so good as to attract motorists
from all over the continent.

And as for the pavements, pavements that look and act like granite,
—where else between the eastern
and western seas are so many miles
in proportion to inhabitants? The pavement question stands with the street as one of the chief drawing cards. Till some unheard of place reports more and better, Daytona throws down the gauntlet to the world.

Squirrels, Flowers, Birds and Fruit.
Whatever one's shortcomings and
however indifferent or even callous
one may be to many things, the mere mention of "flowers and Squirrels,
birds and fruits" will send a thrill
that is reflected in distended pupils
and pricked ears.

For every visitor with a spare goo-
ber there is a bunny ready to come
and accept your gift. He will sit bolt
upright and know into the meat,
casting furtive, saucy glances at you
meanwhile.

Flowers. Usually fresh and blooming the year 'round You are reminded of Goldsmith's couplet where Smiling spring its earliest visit paid
And summer's lingering blossoms
are delayed.

In one yard roses of variegated hues
predominate; another household has
a penchant for the poinsettia and the premises are aflame; another is hidden in a jungle of tall cane. Variety is the spice of life and here is where
you find it.

The birds flit in, and with their
joyous notes help to give fullness
and symmetry to the picture.

As for fruits, choice citrus fruits,
Daytona yields the palm to none for quality and quantity per acre. There are scores of citrus groves in proximity to the city, branches bending
to the earth with their burdens of luscious golden globes, which for beauty, prolificacy and all desirable
qualities would truly astonish you.

The Fastest Autos and The Finest
Out.

The seventh world wonder, do you ask? Come, whether from Missouri
or from Maine, from Kalamazoo or Timbuctoo, and you will be "shown."
Here is where the world's record for speed is broken with every recurring season. Autos, the biggest, the fastest, and the finest are on daily parade
and the big show is as free as the
pure artesian water from the thousands of flowing wells. It is a continuous show with constantly shifting scene.

Everything goes, from a 2-horse power, up to a 200-horse power, and
all degrees of speed from acanter to a two-mile-a-minute clip. You will probably catch the spirit, when you
do the roads and the beach are yours.
The Florida sunshine is free, the balmy ocean breezes are free, the birds and squirrels and flowers are free, the sparkling fountain water is free and you will have to go down in-
to your wallet only for coin for auto,
and bed and board.

This is no fanciful picture; it's all here. It is drawing other thousands and holding them enthralled, it will charm and hold you. Come and see.

SEABREEZE and DAYTONA BEACH
S. BEACH, two enterprising and progressive towns on the Halifax Peninsula, are geographically one
although incorporated as separate municipalities. The towns parallel
the peninsula north and south for a distance of from three and one-half
to four miles, and extend east and west from the surging seas of the Atlantic Ocean to the Halifax River,
the beautiful tide-water stream that sets them apart from Daytona with which they have close communion
by means of three bridges, as well as
a half-hour ferry service.

Seabreeze and Daytona Beach are essentially summer and winter resorts and are making hundreds of new friends every year among those who desire to escape the discomfort-
ing extremes of heat and cold, and
their hotels and boarding houses
are now receiving splendid patronage from the most discriminating
class of tourists.

The mean average temperature, 80
degrees in the summer and 70 degrees
in the winter, with an occasional extra rise or drop of a few days' duration, marks this as one of the most healthful locations in any section of the country, north, east, south or west.

The ocean itself, with its marvelous
beach, hard as macadam and smooth
as a floor, is the greatest attraction,
although earth and air and sky seem
to have entered into a combination
to enhance its every charm. The beach is the famous automobile race
course where every world's straight-
away record has been made, and all
these records it continues to hold without rivalry.

The sand of this famous speedway
is composed largely of the shells of
the quina clam, which are about
one-half inch long and very thin.
For ages Nature has been rolling
them up, washing them back into the surf and pulverizing them. Examined
under the microscope each particle
is round, unfit for mortar, builders
say, because its smoothness prevents its holding together, yet, strange to contemplate, the very moment a wave
leaves the wet, apparently soft beach,
these round particles settle down
into a cement almost as hard as asphalt, beyond the comprehension of one who has not seen it. Repairs are unnecessary, as twice each 24 hours
it is entirely rebuilt by the tides.
The beach has a width of 300 to 500
feet, and can be used from two hours
after until two hours before high tide,
thus giving an average of seven or eight hours for automobiling some
part of each day.

Seabreeze and Daytona Beach each
have a permanent population of approximately 1500. Sanitary ordinances are strictly enforced, streets
and sidewalks are well kept, and
new streets are being opened as fast
as the increasing population demands. Besides hotels and boarding houses there is ample cottage accommodation for all winter visitors.

Seabreeze contains a handsome
opera house and a Congregational Church; at Daytona Beach is a M. E.
Church. An excellent high school
is situated near the division line between the two towns. Both towns have enterprising business establishments, as is evidenced by the
advertisements on the left and right.

All the attractiveness of Seabreeze
applies to Daytona Beach, the two towns being so similarly situated.
The development of Daytona Beach
has been fully as phenomenal as its
sister on the north, and each year
there is a substantial growth. The great sand dunes have been leveled
and handsome homes have been built for both winter and all-year-round occupancy. Flowering shrubs
have been planted, which are covered
with a wealth of bloom both summer
and winter.

Work of rebuilding the Clarendon
hotel is now in progress. This magnificent fire-proof structure, which is to contain 250 rooms, when completed will be the peer of any hotel
in Florida. The site is immediately
north of the clubhouse of the Florida
East Coast Automobile Association.

The Ocean Pier is a great attraction
to fishermen and it is lined summer
and winter with enthusiastic disciples of Izaak Walton, who find it
nothing unusual to land fish weighing several hundred pounds.

PROGRESSIVE NEW SMYRNA

NEW SMYRNA is situated fifteen miles south of Daytona and is an ideal spot reached from Daytona by a hard surface road winding through one of the most picturesque parts of Florida.

With its ancient ruins dating back to a time when the history of man remeth not, interlaced with wires of the modern telegraph and telephone, the miles of shell streets as hard and smooth as a floor and over-arched by hoary forest giants that grew in stately grandeur during the lapse of bygone centuries, New Smyrna is truly a place of romance and rest.

All nature here is very inviting to the tourist and pleasure-seeker. Here too is to be found the best fishing and hunting in the State of Florida.

The people are thrifty, the business men enterprising, and all unite in extending the welcome hand of hospitality to strangers. There are five church edifices for white people and an equal number for the colored population; the town has an excellent high school, a splendid public library, and up-to-date business houses.

There are any number of pretty homes for the permanent population, which numbers close to 2,000, and some very fine winter residences. There are good hotels and boarding houses where you can find accommodations to meet your requirements.

Adjoining New Smyrna is as fine a section of vegetable land as can be found anywhere. This land has been divided into small farms which can be bought at reasonable prices. Some of the finest celery grown in the State is raised on this land. All other vegetables grow in abundance, and here, too, is the home of the famous Indian River oranges.

New Smyrna has no bonded indebtedness and the tax levy is low.

A point that no tourist should fail to visit is the ruins of the Old Spanish Mission which stand somber and alone about one and a quarter miles southwest of New Smyrna. A good road leads to the place and the trip can be easily made by an automobile. Silent, in the great pine flats by the margin of the forest, is this place of pilgrimage for the pious; this rendezvous for the picnicker. The ruins are extensive, and while there is no authentic history of their origin, it is presumed that the Mission was built by the Franciscans in the days when the once powerful Kingdom of Spain first planted its flag upon what is now American soil. It was built of coquina, the roof being of the same material, cut into thin slabs and covered with cement plaster. Extensive gardens surrounded it, which were enclosed by a stone wall, portions of which still remain. Visitors usually come in parties merry and curious but the spell of the place soon falls upon them and they separate to sit alone, silent and meditative, under the arches or beside the ancient well.

CORONADO
Is situated on the peninsula opposite New Smyrna and is connected by a good road and bridge over the deep current of Indian River. Here you can put aside your conventional gear, breathe in large and deep the salty tonic of the sea and enjoy yourself to your heart's content with rod and reel in row or sail boat or in the ocean surf a short half-mile away. The great varieties of fish inhabiting the river and lagoon pass through the channel from the sea beneath the bridge. From verandas, upper balconies and windows you behold the magnificent river, the distant lagoons and islands, the forest-covered peninsula and the vast reaches of the Atlantic Ocean.

HAWKS PARK
A pretty village located along the ridge above the Indian River two and one-half miles south of New Smyrna and connected with fine shell roads. There is the appearance of seclusion, comfort and seclusion about the place which stamps it as the abode of people who come here to enjoy the blessings of outdoor life away from places where crowds are apt to gather.

ORMOND is five miles north of Daytona, located on the western bank of the Halifax River. The location of the town permits of good drainage and perfect sanitation; the elevation is superb and ideal for winter homes. A wide bridge connects Ormond with Ormond Beach. Many fine residences are maintained on either side of the river, most of them embellished with sub-tropical flora and shrubbery, besides thrifty orange and other citrus fruit trees.

The town is very cosmopolitan, has an excellent graded school, several churches, a fine public library, up-to-date places of business and comfortable and convenient hotels and boarding houses.

Ormond has many of the Florida attractions—fine fruit, good fishing, excellent automobilism, safe boating, salubrious climate and pleasant walks and drives.

At Ormond Beach is located the large Hotel Ormond, and its lesser sister, Bretton Inn. The former occupies a position overlooking the Halifax River, while the latter has as its outlook the magnificent beach and the broad Atlantic.

The walks in all directions are particularly attractive, and the arbors, shady and inviting spots and romantic nooks are crowded with rustic seats which are mute invitations to enter into the enjoyment thereof.

Besides the broad, smooth ocean beach there are many drives for carriage or automobile—long drives and short drives; drives through groves of golden oranges; drives through dense tropical forests to Spanish ruins; drives to the ancient Causeway built by the slaves of planters of long ago, and drives to the plantations of hospitable settlers, whose places are replete with the interest of Southern fruits and flowers.

One of these interesting plantations is Number Nine, located on the peninsula, five miles north of the Hotel Ormond. Here you see a fine orange grove, together with great varieties of other sub-tropical fruits and flowers.

Five miles further on you come to Moundgrove, one of the finest orange groves in this section of Florida. Moundgrove is on the headwaters of the Halifax River and is amid pretty surroundings. The place is reached by a good road (passing Number Nine) and is a drive all tourists may enjoy.

DELAND, the county seat of Volusia County, is situated 23 miles southwest of Daytona and is reached from the latter city by an excellent hard-surface road recently constructed.

At Deland is located the John B. Stetson University, one of the leading educational institutions of the South. Because of the interest in matters educational Deland is known as "The Athens of Florida."

Stetson University has a faculty of 50 professors and instructors. There are over $400,000 in buildings and equipment; nearly $300,000 endowment; a Carnegie Library alone representing an investment in building, endowment and books, of more than $120,000. The library is the United States Government depository for the State of Florida, and contains over 15,000 volumes. Science Hall, one of the newest of 16 buildings, with its furnishings, represents an outlay of $60,000. Elizabeth Hall is one of the most beautiful college buildings in the South.

The city has a population of about 3,500, with a thickly settled country adjacent. Deland proper is five miles east of the St. Johns River, on the high, rolling pine land of the great "Orange Ridge" of Florida.

The predominating products are oranges and grapefruit, the estimated crop from this vicinity being over 300,000 boxes this year. Grapes, peaches, pears, Japan persimmons, plums, pecans, guavas, strawberries and other fruits are grown in plenty.

In the way of public improvements are many miles of fine shell roads, an excellent high school, electric lights, a system of waterworks that is owned and operated by the city, supplying the purest water at little cost.

Nine houses of worship testify that Deland is a church-going community. Baptists, Episcopalians, Methodists (Northern and Southern), Presbyterians, Christians and Catholics, besides colored Baptists and Methodists, are represented.

The graded school offers a ten years' course, and the building which it occupies is newly furnished throughout, and is one of the most commodious and best equipped public schools in the State.

The trip from Daytona to Deland is made by automobile in a little over an hour, and there are many pretty drives in the vicinity of the county site. A good road leads to DeLeon Springs, five miles, a historic spot, where 60,000 gallons of water bubble from the earth every minute.

From Deland automobiles go south to Osteen, 18 miles, on shell and marl roads; the St. Johns is crossed by ferry near Osteen and cars can then continue to Sanford and Orlando by hard road. There is a shell road from Deland to Orange City, five miles, and a good road from Deland to Lake Helen, a like distance.

LAKE HELEN
Surrounded by several pretty lakes and guarded by lofty pine trees is Lake Helen, a winter resort of no little importance. Camp Cassadaga, a spiritualistic camp-ground is situated near Lake Helen and at this place several hundred people make winter headquarters. A large lumber mill and the largest brick plant in the South are located at Lake Helen.

ORANGE CITY
The principal attraction around Orange City is the many handsome golden orange groves. The town is supplied with water said to be the purest in the world, another attraction to visitors. It is at Orange City that passengers over the Florida East Coast Ry. transfer to carriages and drive to Deland. The town is surrounded by land peculiarly adapted to the cultivation of citrus fruits.

PORT ORANGE is a pretty little village situated five miles south of Daytona on the Daytona-New Smyrna hard-surface road, the scenic highway of the East Coast. The town is located on the Halifax River, over which spans a bridge from the town to the peninsula opposite.

The town is well laid out and has many pretty homes owned and occupied by residents and winter tourists. It has several churches, one of the best graded schools in Volusia county, two general stores, a real estate agency and two or three hotels.

A large number of tourists and winter residents make Port Orange winter headquarters, one of the several attractions being the excellent fishing. Port Orange is in the orange belt and a number of very fine citrus groves are nearby, where oranges, tangerines and grape-fruit hang in profusion. Some of the best trucking land in the State is to be found thereabout and excellent crops are raised.

West of Port Orange a short distance are the remains of the old Dunlawton sugar mill, a spot that is visited every year by hundreds of tourists. At one time all the country west of Port Orange, surrounding the old mill, was a vast sugar-cane and indigo plantation. The mill was operated extensively in those days but has been in disuse for thirty or forty years.

A pretty automobile or carriage drive from Daytona is via the ocean beach to the approach of the Port Orange bridge, across the bridge and then passing through Port Orange to the ruins of the celebrated old sugar mill, returning to Daytona by the road on the mainland. This drive affords a very pleasing variety of scenery.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

JUST FOR GIRLS.

My Dear Girl:

I who write to you this letter am fifty years of age, and I write to you as to a daughter. And if you will carefully read what I say and ponder over it you may be saved from some regretful hours—or worse.

Know this:

The average man in his attitude toward girls and women is a sort of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde personage. He has two sides—a good and a bad side.

For instance—

The average young man will spend hours in coaxing a girl to kiss him and then think less of her when she consents. Strange, but true.

The average young man will outwardly encourage a girl to do things that he knows to be wrong and inwardly despise her for her weakness. Inconsistent?

Precisely. Men are built that way. If you think that putting aside your natural modesty and doing the things men may ask you to do—things not necessarily criminal in themselves, but merely indiscreet—you make a big mistake.

With a man's inconsistency, the one to whom you permit a familiarity will brag about it to his chums. And they will laugh about it, and your good name will be lightly held.

But—

There's another side to the man. If you prove to him that you are modest and pure and capable of taking care of yourself he will respect you down deep in his heart.

And should your name come up in discussion he will see that it is unswayed. And if you should need his protection he will defend you as staunchly as if he were your brother.

Do you see?

Every girl ought to know. Her mother should tell her.

If your mother has never explained this two sided nature of men to you, I, who write, would feel myself guilty toward you who read my writing if I failed to make it plain.

Do not be a prude, and do not be afraid of any man. Be honest, frank and fearless, but DRAW THE LINE. Let every man know he crosses that line at his peril! He will not cross it. But he will respect you.

Remember, my girl—

Most men have two sides.

Insanity in London.

Costermongers and engineers, one notes, rival each other in heading the list of maniacs provided by the commissioners in lunacy. If you don't want to be mad, be a clergyman. You will have about a one to a thousand chance of not dying in a lunatic asylum. It is a bit risky to be a literary or scientific person, but if you put your science into practice and become an engineer your prospect of lunacy jumps to the top, with only costermongers as your real rivals. Why this is a mystery. It can't be intellect or hurry. Costermongers do not hurry, and they are not noticeably intellectual.—London Chronicle.

The Englishman.

Just as there is no being more disliked in his own country than the Oxford man who displays what is (most unfairly) described as the Oxford manner, so there is nobody who does more harm to our good name abroad than the Englishman who carries his insular conceit all over the continent—his evident belief that the people, the country and the institutions under his condescending review are obviously and painfully inferior to those he has left behind him. That is the sort of optimism which has to be kicked out of a man before he becomes a tolerable citizen of the world.—London Outlook.

Wounded Dignity.

Undersized young husband calls at the registrar's to give in the name of his firstborn.

Registrar—What is it you want?

Husband—To report the birth of a son.

Registrar—Go back, my little man, and tell your father he'll have to come himself!—Liverpool Mercury.

BALLINGER-PINCHOT INVESTIGATORS AND MAN WHO REFUSED TO SERVE.

The investigation by a joint committee of twelve members of congress, six senators and six representatives, of the charges of participation in land frauds made against Secretary of the Interior Richard A. Ballinger promises to be one of the most sensational in the history of the United States. It involves the conduct in office and out of office of a member of the president's cabinet and the recent dismissal from the public service of Gifford Pinchot, chief forester, who has been the most prominent of the accusers of Mr. Ballinger. The six senators selected to act as jurors in the case are Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota, chairman; Senators Root of New York, Flint of California and Sutherland of Utah, four Republicans, and Paynter of Kentucky and Fletcher of Florida, Democrats. The members of the house of representatives chosen to represent the Republican majority are McCall of Massachusetts, Olmsted of Pennsylvania, Madison of Kansas and Denby of Michigan. The Democrats selected by the house are James of Kentucky and Graham of Illinois. Representative Lloyd of Missouri, Democrat, was appointed by the house, but refused to serve.

A Viceroy's Plain Living.

In Miss Juliet Bredon's book about her uncle, Sir Robert Hart, the "grand old man of China," for many years in charge of the imperial customs service, is the following story:

"One of the most influential of Sir Robert's Chinese friends was the great Li Hung Chang. The diplomat liked Li's household because of the simplicity he found there—no wearisome courses at dinner, but fish and perhaps a dish of chicken with rice. Incautiously, as it turned out, he praised this frugality to his own Chinese servant, for the remark reached Li's ears in a distorted form. Next time Sir Robert went there he had to face a grand ceremonial banquet.

"You shall not have the chance to go away again and say that you have been fed like a coolie in my house," said the viceroy proudly at the end of the banquet.

"Nevertheless the very simplicity of your hospitality was what I most appreciated," Sir Robert replied. "But if you believe that I could have made any such remark and if you persist in altering the style of my reception I shall not come to lunch with you again."

The Room Was Full.

Rev. Daniel Isaacs once alighted at an inn to stay the night. On asking for a bed he was told he could not have one, as there was to be a ball that evening and all the beds were engaged.

"At what time does the ball break up?" asked Mr. Isaacs.

"About 3 in the morning, sir."

"Well, then, can I have a bed until that time?"

"Yes, certainly, but if the bed is asked for you will have to remove."

"Very well," replied Mr. Isaacs, and away he went to get between the sheets.

About 3 in the morning he was awakened by loud knocking at his chamber door.

"What do you want?" he asked.

"How many are there of you in there?" inquired a voice.

"There's me and Daniel and Mr. Isaacs and an old Methodist preacher," was the reply.

"Then there's plenty of you." And the speaker passed on, leaving Mr. Isaacs to enjoy his bed.

His Share.

Councilman—I've come to see if you will subscribe anything to the town cemetery. Old Resident—Good gracious! I've already subscribed three wives.—London Telegraph.

Society Leader Who Thinks We Should Own Our Embassies.

One of the leaders in the movement to have the United States purchase homes for its legations and embassies abroad is Frederick Townsend Martin, a prominent member of New York society.

Sense and Sensibility.

For some days the dining room had been disturbed by the invasion of the new boarder. She was fat, fifty and very sentimental, and her tender nature led her to whisper so many rapturous confidences in her neighbor's ear that all the rest of the table felt uncomfortable, so uncomfortable that one day after a harassed breakfast the neighbor determined to make a struggle for liberty and general conversation. Her opportunity came that night at dinner.

"Sweet flowers of spring!" murmured the sentimentalist, apostrophizing the nodding daffodil centerpiece. "Aren't they dear? So full of poetry! And don't you think that we ought always to call them daffodillies instead of daffodils?" she whispered.

"No, I don't," answered the neighbor uncompromisingly and quite out loud. "Just think how awkward it would have been for Wordsworth if he'd had to write:

"And then my heart with pleasure flitted And dances with the daffodillies!" For once the sentimentalist was silenced.—Youth's Companion.

Paupers' Paradise.

The authorities of Samoa, the little island upon which Robert Louis Stevenson lived and died, provide board and lodging absolutely free to strangers who are unable or unwilling to pay for their keep. Every village on the island has a guest house, called a "faletale," and here the tourist is invited to come and be fed, lodged and entertained without any payment whatever.

The officials of the town of Klingenberg-on-the-Main, in Bavaria, are exceptionally generous, for they not only provide free beds and free board to poor people, but give away big puddings every year end to all who ask for them. Klingenberg owns several pottery clay pits that bring in so much money to the town coffers that they pay all the town expenses and leave a good round sum over, which is distributed to charity. Klingenberg is one of the few places where taxes are unknown.

Her Logic.

A United States senator in one of his campaigns told this story to illustrate the logic of an opponent: Did you ever hear about the young woman in Fort Dodge? One spring morning she sat on the piazza of her pretty little home sewing a button on her husband's coat. The husband himself appeared, and she said fretfully: "It's a perfect shame the careless way the tailor sewed this button on. This is the fifth time I've had to sew it on again for you."

"Sparks."

"I wonder," said young Mr. Staylate, hunting around for subject matter of conversation, "why they used to call beaus 'sparks.'"

"Perhaps," replied the suffering maiden, deftly showing a yawn in the act of apparently concealing it. "It was because sometimes they went out."—San Francisco Chronicle.

No Jewish Lullabies.

It is remarkable that, notwithstanding the love and devotion of a Jewish mother, there seems to be no trace of a real Jewish lullaby. Those known are of a recent origin.—American Hebrew.

Her Gamble.

"Did you ever gamble, ma?" "Only once, my son." "And when was that?" "When I married your father."—Princeton Gazette.

CELEBRATED PLEASANT

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

A number of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar M. Condit's friends conspired with Mrs. Condit and Miss Ida Woodrich to give Mr. Condit a delightful surprise on the occasion of his 70th birthday, Monday evening, as well as afford a mutually enjoyable evening to all the participants.

The plan of the conspirators was to make the surprise as complete as possible, and in this they succeeded most admirably.

The friends congregated at a given point and moved on the hospitable residence, 100 Orange avenue, in a body. The door bell rang, and Mr. Condit did the White House act in the hand shaking that followed. The guests were no sooner welcomed than the pleased victim was inundated with a shower of beautiful birthday wishes from all parts of the country. (Mrs. Condit had the mail withheld for two days).

As soon as the congratulations and card reading was over, Dr. Marsh read a poem dedicated to Edgar M. Condit, entitled, Three Score and Ten, which was greatly enjoyed by the company. Dr. Houghton gave a number of beautiful photograph selections during the evening. Elaborate refreshments were served, and the evening otherwise enjoyed in social converse.

Those participating in the celebration were: Dr. and Mrs. B. F. Marsh, Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Houghton, Mr. and Mrs. John Milligan, Mr. and Mrs. A. Milligan, Mr. and Mrs. Hand, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stevens, Miss Harry Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Meagley, Dr. Roy Howe and mother, Mrs. Sarah Howe, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Pitcher, Mrs. Alice Barker, Miss M. Ella DeVoy, Mrs. Mary Rogers and sister, Mrs. Mathers, of Somerville, Mass.; Mrs. Mary C. Parker and Mrs. M. J. Taylor, of Seville, Ohio.

A reception, in which many of the society leaders of New York and Philadelphia were invited, followed the wedding.

LUMBERMEN TO DISCUSS

FOREST DESTRUCTION.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 26—The annual convention of the Pennsylvania Retail Lumber Dealers' Association began in this city today, with headquarters at the Hotel Walton. President S. C. Creasy, of Bloomsburg, called the gathering to order. Freight rates and forest destruction are the principal questions to be discussed during the three days' session.

NEWS OF THE HOTELS

D. W. Blymyer, of Evansville, Ind., brother of John G. Blymyer, on Magnolia avenue, arrived Monday night on a visit to his relatives here and is registered at the Despland.

Recent arrivals at The Despland are Mrs. J. R. Pope, R. P. Pope, Beverly, Mass.; G. B. Collins, New York; H. B. Clark, New York; Miss J. C. Montague, Miss N. B. Montague, Philadelphia; D. W. Blymyer, Evansville, Ind.; J. A. Squeelr, Jacksonville.

Late arrivals at The Ridgewood include: Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Chandler, Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Elliott, M. H. Voorhees, London Mills, Ill.; C. E. Thayer, Miss Thayer, Minneapolis; Edwin M. Ware, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Thompson, Joliet, Ill.; Mrs. L. M. Shepard, Miss M. R. Mavel, Philadelphia.

Ardath Margaret McNaughton, of Detroit, a bright three-year-old, who is with her mother at The Hamilton, yesterday wrote a typewritten letter to her father away in Michigan. The clerk held her in position, but she studied out the letters and manipulated the keys. The letter ran "Dear Papa: I am sending you Florida violets. Your little daughter." Only a little maiden and a little letter, but it carries a full message to the waiting father.

Stopping the "Fire Wagon."

When the first railroad was laid over the western plains and the cars began running to San Francisco the Indians viewed the locomotive from the hill-tops at a distance, not daring to come nearer the "fire wagon." A train of cars was to them "heap wagon, no boss." An Apache chief gathered a party of warriors in Arizona and went several hundred miles to see the terrible fire wagon that whistled louder than the eagle's scream and poured out dense black smoke. W. M. Thayer says in his "Marvels of the New West" that the redskins grew bolder and once attacked a fire wagon, expecting to capture it. When they failed and many were injured they said, "Fire wagon bad medicine!"

The Indians stretched a lariat across the track, breast high, each end being held by thirty braves.

"When the engineer first saw it he didn't know what on earth was the matter," said the narrator, "but in a minute more he burst out laughing. He caught hold of that throttle, and he opened her out."

"He struck that lariat going about forty miles an hour, and he just piled those braves up everlasting promiscuous."

They're All Good.

Burne-Jones, the famous artist, made many sketches for the children of his friend, J. Comyns Carr. He once laughingly proposed to instruct the eldest boy in the principles of anatomy, and there and then made for him two beautiful drawings representing the anatomy of the good man and the good woman, in both of which the heart, magnificently large, winged and backed by spreading flames, is the central detail.

By special request he made another drawing, illustrating the anatomy of the bad man. On being met with the reproach that the third drawing showed nothing of the details of internal structure he replied:

"There are none. The bad man is quite hollow."

On being challenged to illustrate the anatomy of the bad woman he gravely replied:

"My dear boy, she doesn't exist."

Plymouth Rock.

Plymouth rock has become an object of veneration in the United States because of its interesting historical associations. As is well known, it is the rock or ledge on which the pilgrims are believed to have landed when they first stepped from their boats in the harbor of what is now Plymouth, Mass. In 1775 part of the rock was removed to the vicinity of Pilgrim hall, but was afterward restored to its original site and is now under the stone canopy that surmounts the main rock on Water street. Charles Sumner said, "From the deck of the Mayflower, from the landing at Plymouth rock, to the senate of the United States is a mighty contrast, covering whole spaces of history hardly less than from the wolf that suckled Romulus and Remus to that Roman senate which on curule chairs swayed Italy and the world."

Anatomical Expert.

When a butcher answered the bell of his telephone instrument one day the shrill voice of a little girl greeted his ears. "Hello! Is that Mr. Wilson?" "Yes," he answered kindly. "Well, can you tell us where grandpa's liver is? We've got to put a hot dannel on it, and we can't find it!"—London Telegraph.

Her Train.

"I shall miss my train," she said petulantly. "Oh, no, you won't," the dressmaker assured her. "You will soon get used to these gowns which haven't any."—New York Journal.

Although the world is full of suffering, it is full of the overcoming of it.—Keller.

Hardness of Icebergs.

The hardness and strength of ice increases with the degrees of cold, and as icebergs come from the region of perpetual cold of an intensity difficult to realize it is readily seen how they can become "demons of destruction." The hardness of icebergs is something wonderful, even surpassing that of the "land ice" reported from St. Petersburg in 1740, wherein it is declared that "in the severe winter of that year a house was built of ice taken from the river Neva which was fifty feet long, sixteen feet wide and twenty feet high, and the walls supported the roof, which was also of ice. Before it stood two ice mortars and six ice cannon made on a turning lathe, with carriages and wheels also of ice. The cannon were of the caliber of six pounders, but they were loaded only with one-quarter pound of powder and with bump balls—on one occasion with iron. The thickness of the ice was only four inches, and yet it resisted the explosion." Ice palaces have also been built in late years in this country and in Canada which have stood for weeks, so, then, how strong must be the ice in masses hundreds of feet in thickness!—Pittsburg Press.

Helped Him to Hurry.

Prince Bismarck once told a story of the battlefield of Koeniggratz. The old emperor, then king of Prussia, had exposed himself and his staff to the enemy's fire in a very reckless fashion and would not hear of retreating to a safe distance. At last Prince Bismarck rode up to him, saying: "As a responsible minister I must insist upon your majesty's retreat to a safe distance. If your majesty were to be killed the victory would be of no use to us." The king saw the force of this and slowly retreated, but in his zeal returned again and again to the front. "When I noticed it," Prince Bismarck went on, "I only rose in my saddle and looked at him. He understood it perfectly and called out rather angrily, 'Yes, I am coming.' But we did not get on fast enough, and at last I rode close up to the king, took my foot out of the right stirrup and secretly gave his horse an energetic kick. Such a thing had never before happened to the fat mare, but the move was successful, for she shot off in a fine canter."

Tricks of Short Sight.

Not only the inanimate but the animate world presents itself in strange forms to the myopic. Humanity, for instance, is often revealed in somewhat inhuman guise. Thus, so far as ocular demonstration goes, the world to the shortsighted is peopled by men and women as faceless, sometimes even as headless, as the horseman of legendary fame. Indoors myopic persons get quite accustomed to talking with persons who have neither eyes nor nose. Out of doors the phenomenon is more striking because oftener repeated. At quite a short distance the face melts into the atmosphere and becomes either a cloud or, like H. G. Wells' invisible man, a nothingness. "I see the hat and the figure, sometimes the beard. I see the walking stick. If the hand is ungloved this stick is waving miraculously a little way from the sleeve edge, for the hand, like the face, has vanished."—Strand Magazine.

Charming Away Tigers.

No woodcutter will go about his task in the Indian forests unless he is accompanied by a fakir, who is supposed to exercise power over tigers and wild animals generally. Before work is commenced the fakir assembles all the members of his party in a clearance at the edge of the forest and erects a number of huts, in which he places images of certain deities. After offerings have been presented to the images the particular forest is declared to be free of tigers, and the woodcutters in virtue of the presents they have made to the deities are supposed to be under their special protection. If after all these precautions a tiger seizes one of the party the fakir speedily takes his departure without waiting to offer superfluous explanations.—Calcutta Statesman.

Not Mechanical.

A song and dance comedian was working in a cheap vaudeville house where a performance was given hourly. The tired performer had made nine appearances and had fallen asleep on his trunk when the manager poked him in the ribs and said:

"Hey, you—wake up! It's time for you to go on again."

"Say," retorted the performer, "I can't go on again. What do you take me for—a film?"—Metropolitan Magazine.

His Preference.

Pompano—Why do you work so hard, Bagley? You slave from morning until night. Bagley—I know I do. I wish to get rich. I want to die worth a million. Pompano—Well, there's no accounting for tastes. Now, I would much prefer to live worth half a million.—Philadelphia Call.

A Limited "Forever."

"What's the matter, Clara?" asked a father of his daughter. "Ferdie and I have parted forever." "Um! In that case I s'pose he won't be calling for a couple of nights!"

His Delusion.

Howell—I had the nightmare last night. Powell—That so? Howell—Yes; I thought that I was being kicked by the foot of the bed.—New York Press.

An Example.

"Pa, what's a cynical smile?" "Your mother will show you, my son, the next time I tell her I can't spare all the money she wants."

Mr. Deane reported what he had heard, and there was much wonderment in the matter. Although nothing for some days, then information came that a girl was going to be married. It was not long after that that the people were all against males and would not believe him. This led to the loss of the authorities, and the women are left as they are. The women are light are permitted to choose from among the better grade of women, the most attractive in physical appearance and nobility, while the poorer offenders must marry the coarse and most unloved.

Within a few days there was another case of a young man of good reputation becoming a lewdster. This case was the more remarkable because he was of noble family. An account of his rank he himself refused to give, but he was well known and he had been a member of times. He, like all that was mentioned of crime

The matter now turned into the courts, and Thomas was accused for the murder of his loved man. The clothing on the corpse was examined, and several pieces were found to have belonged to John. Though the evidence was circumstantial, the thing that was troubling John was that John had been married. William's evidence was with intent to commit homicide, but a stranger appeared in the DMV who swore that he had driven into the town late on the night of the murder and had heard angry words in Deane's barn. He had returned to his home in Idaho and was two days with the police in the town of Deane's place. There he was told that the man had been with the Deane family and had been with

By LAURENCE FOSTER CHURCH.
[Copyright, 1929, by American Press Association.]

Not far from the close of the eighteenth century there lived in a small town in New Jersey—it is now a city—Raymond Doane, a man very much respected and of a peaceful disposition. His house stood near the main street or road, considerable grounds behind and on either side of it. On the lot next adjoining lived Samuel Whitford, who was Doane's antipode. If he but once conceived a grudge against any one he would pursue him to the bitter end. He quarreled with nearly every one in the town, and there was none to speak a good word for him but Raymond Doane, who always stood for peace and constantly endeavored to allay the prejudice against his neighbor.

But one day a horse of Doane's got into Whitford's premises and destroyed a lot of vegetables growing in the garden. Though Doane offered to make suitable reparation, Whitford would not be pacified. From that time he made the lives of Mr. Doane and his family miserable and went so far as to injure one of Doane's children he found on his grounds. This was too much even for the quiet Mr. Doane's patience. Meeting Whitford, he protested. Whitford attacked him, but Doane, being the better man, got him down and rubbed his nose in the dirt.

After this the Doanes expected worse treatment than before, but Whitford let them alone and finally surprised them by offering the olive branch. It was accepted, but without confidence.

Mr. Doane had a man doing unimportant jobs about his place named Silas Moore, who had received an injury in childhood which had impaired his intellect. One night Silas was heard screaming "Murder!" in the back of Mr. Doane's place. Doane got up and went out to see what was the matter. He found no one and went back to bed. Silas was not again seen in the town.

Mr. Doane reported what he had heard, and there was much wonderment in the matter. Whitford said nothing for some time, then intimated that he might say a great deal were it not that the people were all against him and would not believe him. This got to the ears of the authorities, and Whitford was called upon to give testimony. With apparent unwillingness he said that on the night in question, hearing the cries, he had got up and gone to the rear of his yard. The cries had then ceased. Whitford was about to return to the house when he saw a figure through the darkness dragging some object. He followed and saw the figure dig a hole, into which he thrust what he had been dragging, filled the hole and spent much time destroying the marks of the ground's disturbance. Whitford followed the figure and saw it go into Doane's back door.

No citizen of the place would have paid any attention to this story, but the police, of course, must visit the spot and examine it. Whitford led them, and after digging in several places they came upon a corpse so disfigured that they could tell nothing about it except that it was about Silas' height and the hair was the same color.

The matter now passed into the courts, and Doane was arrested for the murder of his hired man. The clothing on the corpse was examined, and several pieces were found to have belonged to Silas. Though the body was unrecognizable, the clothing proved conclusively that Silas had been murdered. Whitford's evidence was not sufficient to convict Doane, but a stranger appeared at the trial who swore that he had driven into the town late on the night of the murder and had heard angry words in Doane's barn. He had reined in his horse to listen and saw two figures walk to the back of Doane's place. Then he had heard the cries and had gone and seen what Whitford had seen from another point.

Even this would not have convicted Doane before a jury of his fellow townsmen, but the prosecuting attorney, realizing this, took a change of venue and tried him elsewhere. The result was that the peace loving Mr. Doane was convicted of the murder of his half witted servant. In this, as in every mysterious murder case, there were those who believed in the guilt of the one being tried for it and those who did not so believe.

A hanging in those days was open to the view of every one. From daylight till noon on the day the culprit was to be swung off all sorts of vehicles were driven into town loaded with people. The condemned man was brought forth and given an opportunity to speak, which he declined. The noose was being adjusted when some one in the crowd cried:

"Hold on!"

Every eye was turned to the speaker, who was pointing in a certain direction. There, gaping with the rest of the crowd, stood the man who had been murdered—the fool Silas Moore.

That ended the hanging, or, rather, it never took place, and the supposed murderer was carried home on the shoulders of his friends.

Silas Moore when questioned told how Whitford had persuaded him to enact the murder scene at night and then had hurried him away where he supposed he would be safe. The stranger witness had been paid for his testimony. It also came out that Whitford had procured a corpse, made its face unrecognizable, put Silas' clothes on it and buried it.

Whitford made good his escape and was never heard of again in America.

One day Jaharia, a little maiden of Siam, while walking in a public garden passed a dark eyed youth. Their eyes met, and the flame of love was kindled in the maiden's breast. She was then only fifteen, but the image of the young man remained photographed indelibly upon her brain.

The time soon came when she should be married. But, though she was pretty and attractive, no suitor appeared for her hand. The truth is that she gave none of the young men any encouragement. One day her father, who was a mathematician, so absorbed in his figures that he took little note of anything else, said to her:

"Jaharia, how old are you?"

"Nineteen."

"What! Nineteen and not married? What does it mean?"

"There are no suitors," said the girl. "No suitors! Surely you are coming."

"I am your daughter, and you see me through a father's eyes."

"I wonder if that is so. Perhaps it is. At any rate, you must have a husband. I will attend to the matter tomorrow."

Now, this is what the old man meant by "attending to the matter." In Siam every woman who has reached a certain age without securing a husband may, if she choose, be registered as one of the younger daughters of the king. This places her under the king's protection and compels him to find a husband for her. These husbands, however, are all lawbreakers. They are not sent to prison or fined or executed, but are condemned to marry one of the king's adopted younger daughters. The condemned men are allowed to make their own selection, but with certain limitations. Those whose offenses are light are permitted to choose from among the better grade of women, the most attractive in physical appearance and amiability, while the grave offenders must marry the ugliest and worst tempered.

So it was that the poor girl cherishing in her memory the youth she had seen in the park, with plenty of young fellows anxious to marry her, was to be given to a malefactor. It was her misfortune to have a father who, if far penetrating in the problem of mathematics, on ordinary matters was inordinately stupid.

The registry had scarcely been made when a young man who had borne an excellent character—a student in the university—was caught pilfering. Everybody was astonished. He was tried, but the judge, considering that it was his first offense, gave him a fatherly admonition and let him off. To the surprise of every one, two hours after his discharge he was again arrested for a similar offense. This time the judge condemned him to marry one of the king's daughters.

Within a few days there was another case of a young man of good reputation becoming a lawbreaker. This case was the more remarkable because he was of noble family. On account of his rank he would not have been prosecuted had he not repeated his offense a number of times. He, too, at last was convicted of crime. One morning when the judge went to court he saw in the prisoners' dock no less than six young men of the best families—some of them noble—who were to be tried for petty offenses. "There is an epidemic of crime among our youth," said the judge to himself. "I must stamp it out." Thereupon he convicted every one of the lawbreakers of an offense of the highest grade and sentenced each to marry one of the ugliest and most irascible of the king's daughters.

Nevertheless the epidemic spread. Young men of every grade were caught openly committing offenses, and all were convicted without mercy. Finally one morning when the judge took his seat on the bench he was astonished to see in the prisoners' dock the son of the prime minister. The young man, whose name was Karkalo, pleaded guilty to stealing the purse of the minister of finance.

The judge, not daring to sentence so high a personage, was about to discharge the young man, but the latter said that he would prefer to suffer as a lawbreaker and should be obliged if the judge would give him an opportunity to expiate his offense, whereupon he was sentenced as one of the better grade of malefactors.

On the day when the criminals were brought forth to select their wives all these better class young men were among the number. Among the women to be chosen was Jaharia. Twelve of the young men of birth were obliged to select wives from among the homely and vicious. They were all in despair. Little Jaharia stood mute, with downcast eyes, equally despondent. Presently an attendant told her that she had been chosen and led her to the man who had chosen her. When she stood face to face with him she looked up.

It seemed to her that the people, the walls, the furniture, were swimming about her, all tinged with the colors of the rainbow, while an ecstatic happiness welled up in her heart. She saw the young man she had several years before met in the public garden. "I have demeaned myself," he said, "to gain you for my wife. I never chanced to see you after the first time till I learned that a certain lovely girl had become a king's daughter and found that she was the one I had so long dreamed of."

He was the king's son and secured a pardon for the others.

Facts About Hailstones.

If it was not for the countless tril-
lions of dust particles that float separately, invisible in the atmosphere,
there could be no raindrops, snow
crystals or hailstones. From a perfectly dustless atmosphere the moisture would descend in ceaseless rain
without drops. The dust particles
serve as nuclei about which vapor gathers. The snow crystal is the most beautiful creation of the aerial moisture, and the hailstone is the most extraordinary. The heart of every hail-stone is a tiny speck of dust. Such a speck, with a little moisture condensed
about it, is the germ from which may be formed a hailstone capable of felling a man or smashing a window. But first it must be caught up by a current of air and carried to the level of the lofty cirrus clouds five or six or even ten miles high. Then, continually growing by fresh accessions of moisture, it begins its long plunge to
the earth, spinning through the cloud
and flashing in the sun like a diamond
bolt shot from a rainbow.—New York Tribune.

The Thunder Sounding Smoke.

The Victoria falls, the native name
for which is Most-on-Tounga, or the Thunder Sounding Smoke, have rightly been called the most beautiful gem
in the whole of the earth's scenery. No
pen picture or photograph can give the faintest idea of the marvelous grandeur and beauty of the scene. The majesty and mystery of the gigantic
gorges, the foaming torrents, the wonderful atmospheric effects—all come upon one with a force and power as though nothing had ever before been read or heard in connection with them. The falls by moonlight are a truly fascinating spectacle. The roaring clouds of spray, the somber rain
forest, the stream of the Zambezi
shimmering far above the trembling
earth, the lunar rainbow, combine to make an inimitable picture.

Where the Zambezi takes its mighty plunge of a sheer 400 feet the river is over a mile wide, or, to be exact, 5,908 feet.—Rand Mail.

Horse or Beef?

The first day horse was served out at Kimberley some of it was cooked for
the officers' mess at the mounted camp.
At the table Peakman said:

"Gentlemen, I am sorry to say that we were unable to get all our ration in
beef today and had to take part of it in horsesh. This which I am carrying is beef; the horse is at the other end, and any one who prefers it can help himself."

Nobody did prefer it, and so they all
ate beef and made a good dinner.
When they had finished Peakman suddenly exclaimed:

"By Jove, gentlemen, I find I have made a mistake in the joints! This is the horsesh and the other is beef."

It was just a dodge of his to get them started on the horsesh.—Diary
of Dr. Oliver Ashe.

The Very Simple Life.

Pierre Loti, the French author, always did like a practical joke. A French poet who had been advocating
a return to the simple life decided one-
day to make the acquaintance of Loti.
He left his village, he who never travels, stick in hand, to make the journey to Hendaye, the home of Loti, on foot. He prayed the celebrated novelist to receive him without ceremony,
that he should be satisfied with a
bowl of milk for his repast.

But he was much astonished when the novelist took him at his word. In the dining room on a table without
cloth or napkin there was only an immense crock of milk.

The visitor showed some hesitation
about beginning the feast. Meanwhile his host began to walk around the room like a bear in a cage, only interrupting his walk from time to time to take a long swig of milk from the crook. Without saying a word the host invited the astonished guest to imitate
him.

The man of the simple life had found
one more simple than himself, and he left the house convinced that the great
novelist had become crazy.

Murder Revealed by a Dream.

Perhaps the most amazing crime
mystery ever solved by a dream was
that revealed by a murder trial a couple of generations ago. The dead body of Mr. Norway, an inoffensive Cornish
gentleman, and been found by the roadside between Wadebridge and Bodmin brutally murdered. No trace of the murderer could be found, and
the mystery of the crime seemed beyond all solution when Mr. Norway's brother, a naval officer, arrived in England and told the following story:
On the very night of his brother's murder, when he was on his ship in the West Indies, he saw him in a dream
walking along the Bodmin road, when
from a dark recess in the hedge two
ruffians sprang out, slew and robbed
him and then made their way to a house in Wadebridge, which he saw vividly in his dream. To this house
he conducted the police officers, and
there he found the very two men
whom in his vision he had seen commit the murder. They confessed and suffered the extreme penalty of the law.—London Answers.

Not Entertaining.

A vendor of fresh shrimps had had a very unexciting day. Money was scarce. Eventually in a dreary street
a woman stood shouting at the door.
Hurry up, he asked eagerly, "A pen'orth, mum?"
"No," she replied sharply; "a hap-orth. D'ye think we've got company?"
—London Scraps.

What He Lacked.

"He's got no license to talk the way
he does."
"Oh, he's got a license, all right;
What he lacks is a muzzle."—Cleveland Leader.

Disagreeable.

Aunt—I can tell at a glance what other people are thinking of me. Niece (absentmindedly)—How very disagreeable for you, auntie!
